Waiting

Hi my name is Anoki, I guess it fits me

It's Native American for actor; this is a big life factor

My body needs a new part; unfortunately it's the heart

So I act like I'm fine, when really I'm hurting all the time

My friends & family tell me I'm strong, but I wonder for how long

Things like this shouldn't happened to kids my age, we still have to discover life's big stage

Although I'd like to thank the donors, lending their organs to needy new owners

I wonder when I'll receive mine; I try so hard not to whine

It's just so hard to hold back the tears, when you have been waiting for years

But when it's finally my chance on the list, oh how I will be in sweet bliss
